

Heard it Before

An itinerant speaker stood in the pulpit and said to the congregation:-

“Friends, the last time I used this message was on the occasion that I spoke to the inmates at Dartmoor Prison some time ago. I trust the Lord will help me to deliver the word here this evening and I apologise if there is anyone here who has heard the message before.”

Well everyone, you can rest assured that I’ve never used this word here before and I’m sure that no-one in church today will have heard it already – even if they do happen to have been in Dartmoor Prison!
